About Jonathan

Jonathan Brodin is a corporate transactional attorney, focusing primarily on mergers and acquisitions (M&A) and corporate governance. Jonathan has represented numerous individuals, private investors, and businesses on the buyer and seller sides in a wide range of transactions, including internal ownership transitions, asset purchases, stock purchases, and redemptions. Jonathan also serves as outside general counsel to closely-held business owner clients, focusing on day-to-day matters, including business formation, corporate cleanup, corporate governance, shareholder agreements, operating agreements, employment matters, and commercial leasing matters.

Jonathan is heavily involved in the entire M&A process, advising clients from the date a letter of intent is negotiated and signed to the transaction's closing. He has a deep background in advising business buyers and sellers, including negotiating agreements, conducting due diligence, and drafting contracts.

Business owners face a myriad of options, from formation to sale. Jonathan helps business owners navigate these options and their ramifications.

Jonathan and his wife Becca are proud parents of their daughter, Macey, and their two sons, Harrison and Shepherd. In addition to spending time with family, Jonathan enjoys playing golf and softball.
