About Ruric

Ruric G. Ellings focuses his practice on Business Law, with an emphasis in mergers and acquisitions, entity formations, business relocations (across state borders), and shareholder disputes.

Ruric's interest in building a legal career stems from his enduring desire to help others. Regardless of the size of the business or the deal, Ruric handles every client matter with equal attention. From simple contracts and agreements, to highly complex business issues and conflicts, he works in partnership with clients to develop straightforward business solutions with their best interest in mind.

Prior to joining the firm, Ruric attended law school in Washington, D.C., where he also served internships with the Federal Communications Commission in its Office of Legislative Affairs and Public Safety and Homeland Security Bureau.

Personal

During his time away from the office, Ruric enjoys alpine skiing, hiking, and spending his free time exploring the great Pacific Northwest with his wife, Christina.
